

AN ENCORE LEARNING SPECIAL EVENT

The Divine Comedy

Heaven, Purgatory and Hell as Envisioned by Contemporary African Artists

Friday, July 24, 2015 10:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

The National Museum of African Art.

Registration is required and is limited to 20 Encore
Learning members. The tour is free.

Join Encore Learning on a tour of a visually stunning celebration of Contemporary African art that explores the themes of Dante's Divine Comedy through multiple media, including prints, sculpture, paintings, and video. The works probe diverse issues of politics, history, heritage and faith in idioms of art that express today's concerns, as Dante expressed those of 14th-century Florence.

A waiting list will be maintained and all registrants will be contacted one week in advance of the tour regarding their status.

The African Art Museum is located at 950 Independence Avenue, NW, in Washington. The METRO stops are L'Enfant Plaza Station on the Yellow Line and Smithsonian on the Orange and Blue Lines.
