

AN ENCORE LEARNING SPECIAL EVENT

Yayoi Kusama: Infinity Mirrors Exhibition

See the dazzling art by a rebel & worldwide phenomenon!

Yayoi Kusama with recent works in Tokyo, 2016. Photo by Tomoaki Makino. Courtesy of the artist © Yayoi Kusama

Our earth is only one polka dot among a million stars in the cosmos. Polka dots are a way to infinity.
-Yayoi Kusama

Thursday 3/2/17

9:00 to 10:30 AM

Hirshhorn Museum

This event is free to Encore Learning members and is limited to 60 registrants (each subgroup of 15 people will have their own tour guide)

Yayoi Kusama: Infinity Mirrors exhibition is a celebration of the legendary Japanese artist's 65-year career and promises to be 2017's essential art experience. Enjoy an unprecedented chance to discover six of Kusama's dazzling mirror rooms at once, alongside whimsical installations, vibrant sculpture and colorful, large-scale paintings making their U.S. debut. Because of the expected popularity of this exhibition, our tour will begin an hour before the museum opens; people not on a tour will need to get free timed passes in advance to see the kaleidoscopic environments that offer a chance to step into an illusion of infinite space.

Be sure to arrive on time. We will assemble in the lobby of the museum. The doors open early at 9AM for tour groups only. Our contact person at the museum is Ashley Meadows. Although this is one of the largest special events ever, a waitlist will be maintained and all waitlist members who get into the tour will be contacted via phone or email at least one week prior to the event.

The Hirshhorn Museum is located at the intersection of Independence Avenue and Seventh Street, NW. Members are encouraged to take Metro and arrive about 15 to 20 minutes before the start of the tour. The two closest Metro Stations are: Smithsonian and L'Enfant Plaza. Parking is limited in the vicinity of the Hirshhorn.